

WE NOMINATE

Robert Louis Geddes, 42-year old head of Princeton University's 46-year old School of Architecture, who must be ranked among the most stimulating and energetic teacher-architects striving to revitalize architectural education in this country. One of the seven outstanding architects honored this month by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for "Design Excellence" in Federally-sponsored projects in cities and metropolitan areas, this Philadelphia-born educator is guiding the Princeton school in bold new directions in architectural practice, theory, education and research and is also blueprinting the development of its newly established Center for Studies of the Planned Environment.

Called to the University a year ago as Princeton's first Dean of Architecture, an upgrading title-change underlining the School's growing importance within the University, Geddes brought to his new post an unusual background as a successful practicing architect, city planner and educator. From 1952 until his Princeton appointment, which was strongly recommended by a committee of faculty members and distinguished architects, he had been Professor of Architecture and Civic Design at the University of Pennsylvania and had demonstrated his versatility by carrying off a half-dozen top-level professional honors.

Geddes, who invariably turns to the blackboard, or grabs pencil and pad, whenever discussing educational problems, believes that architects in this era must have a keen sense of the relationship of their work to the prevailing urban environment. "Probably each generation has to rediscover for itself contemporary roots of architecture, the kind of functionalism that is its own reality," he has emphasized. "I hope we can strengthen the connections between architecture and science and technology on the one hand, and the humanities and social sciences on the other, and can make a continuity of architecture and urban design while making architecture a more humane social art."

With his arrival in Princeton, where he now maintains a Nassau Street office for his private practice, Geddes rounded out the "Big Three" Circuit, for he had completed his undergraduate study with the Yale Class of 1945 and his architectural training at the Harvard Graduate School of Design. A partner in a highly-regarded Philadelphia firm, he received the First Honor Award of the American Institute of Architects in 1960 for his design of the University of Pennsylvania's Moore School of Electrical Engineering and in both 1958 and 1963 was awarded gold medals by the American Institute's Philadelphia Chapter as well as silver medals by the Pennsylvania Society of Architects.

The scope of Geddes' interests is indicated by a partial listing of his assignments at the time he was pondering Princeton's offer. It included residence halls at the University of Delaware; a town design center for Rockville, Md.; a dining hall and dormitories for the University of Pennsylvania; a campus plan for Beaver College; a town plan with a village center and housing for Reston, Va.; an embassy for the United States in Pakistan; and public housing in both Philadelphia and West Chester, Pa. It was the low-income housing project in West Chester which was cited in Washington a fortnight ago by a panel of his fellow architects.

For agreeing that architecture can "uplift the spirit, broaden the vision and help enrich the lives of people who live in our cities;" for his contributions to a nationwide study of educational programs dedicated to better preparing the architectural profession for its expanding role in the design of the nation's physical environment; he is our nominee as

MONEY? TIGHT!

In Princeton, borrowed any money lately? If you need a loan to buy a car, you can probably drive your new car down Nassau Street tomorrow. But if you need a mortgage to buy a house, you're already leashed to the hard, tight truth: money is as tight in Princeton as a miser's fist.

"All our loanable funds are fully committed," is the way they phrase it at one of Princeton's two savings and loan institutions. "We have no mortgage funds available," says the other.

This has happened in the last two months. It goes back, however, to last spring when the Federal Reserve increased the re-discount rate and thereby made it more costly for banks to borrow. But there are many other, more local factors, too.

The tightness, of course, is nationwide. What makes it a surprise in Princeton is that this community usually isn't affected much by supply-demand in the money market.

What Can I Borrow? Two or three months ago in Princeton, you could get a mortgage for 10% of the value of the house you wanted to buy, a 30-year mortgage at 9% or 10%.

Today, if you're a long-term customer who does all his banking at the right bank or if you're a high-figure young executive making at least $20,000 a year in a stable business or if you can afford a $40,000 minimum house or if the owner will let you assume his old mortgage or will take back a second mortgage, you . . .

With the right combination of these "ifs" and some shopping around, you can find a mortgage in Princeton. It will be a 6% mortgage, no doubt of that (6% is the legal ceiling in New Jersey for home-buyers). It may be for as long as 25 years but is more likely to be for only 20 and probably it will be for only 66% of the value of the house.

Some places won't give you more than a $25,000 mortgage under any circumstances and in at least one institution, you'll have to pay "points" before you can get any money at all.

"Money will get easier," promises Stuart Manton of the John T. Henderson real estate agency. "Around the first of the year, after elections, and that 6% rate won't go down."

We'll work out of this," con-

A BANKER SPEAKS: William Cosby, president of Princeton Bank and Trust, is one of several experts commenting on tight money in "This is Princeton."

In the Public Interest . . .

Personal loss from fire and theft, injury and death from many different types of accidents, are steadily increasing throughout the nation. To create added awareness of the need for constant care, and to provide much helpful suggestions on how to increase one's personal well being, TOWN TOPICS this week presents on pages 10 and 11 the first of a series of public messages on safety.

A second, to appear in October, will recognize that as "Fire Prevention Month," while others published at monthly intervals will deal with such vital topics as water safety, precautions to be followed when skating on lakes and ponds, and proper attitudes if poison is accidentally swallowed.

Each message is made possible through the cooperation of 16 educational, research and business firms well known in the Princeton community.

here have mortgage portfolios until a year ago, it still has that are fairly new. This means funds to lend, although probably not much money has been paid by you cannot obtain more back yet to lend out in new than a $30,000 mortgage.

But a real estate man, Robert Dougherty of Stewardson & Dougherty's Association, sees the picture in a different light. He cites the 30% drop in Philadelphia housing starts compared with the 5% drop in Mercer County in the past year, and he says "Mercer County hasn't felt the mortgage punch yet, compared to the rest of the country."

We'd Like Your Business. As an example of money tightness one Princeton real estate broker tells about a client who applied to a Princeton bank for a mortgage. He had a checking account in the bank, and a second account in a New York City bank.

The Princeton banker was friendly and welcoming, but he told the man quite pointedly that the bank would like ALL his business, not just that one account. And so, to obtain the mortgage he wanted, the man was forced to close his checking account in New York and move it to the Princeton bank.

Another example of tight money is the "point" system, devised by lending institutions to get them out from under that 6% ceiling.

A "point" is simply a percentage point of your mortgage. If you want a $40,000 mortgage and the lending institution is charging two points, you will be charged $800 in addition to the usual closing costs.

So far in this area, only Pennington Savings and Loan is charging points: one point to the buyer, according to William Hart, secretary of the firm, and one point to the seller. Pennington started a point policy only two weeks ago and Mr. Hart says it's too soon to tell whether the policy has "helped."

"Asking for points in usurious," Mr. Cosby states flatly. "I think it's illegal, and I think a claim could be made to stand up in court."

Some lenders think the 6% ceiling should be raised — in California, for example, the percentage may go up to 9% — and the New Jersey legislature may well consider raising it here, although no specific bill is pending.

Where To Go? As this is written — as the situation is flexible — the most likely places for a mortgage are First Trenton National and Princeton Trust. these days than just "good ere-

Where is the Money? To the question "Where is the money, any way?" bankers, savings-and-loan people and real estate agents have many answers. There was that red-discunt rate increase mentioned above. There is also the stock-market. One savings and loan institution reports that many withdrawal checks from savings accounts have been made out to stock issues. In some cases, because of the declining market, margin accounts may be being covered.

Higher savings and loan interest rates in California or New York have siphoned money out of New Jersey institutions. Some lenders speak in sleep-deeping terms of "inventory" and "empty shelves," to explain why their money is all gone.

Heavy withdrawals from savings accounts by new cars or television sets before the New Jersey sales tax went into effect is described as a factor by one Princeton expert.

Then, the average Princeton resident begs to think of the 100 millionaires who are said to live here. Wouldn't they like to earn 6% by putting out some mortgages for non-mortgages?

"Impractical," says Ridgely Cook of Edmund Cook & Company, real estate firm. "The term is long time in years for

What To Do, What to do you do, then, if you want to buy a house?

"Try to assume the existing mortgage, or get the owner to take back a second mortgage," advises Mr. Minton.

Get a good executive job, says everyone. "If you're a really young guy making

$20,000 to $30,000 or more, you can handle you," says realtor

Charles L. Drake. "If you're you're doing fine now and you've obviously got promise," like Mr. Drake, most real estate agents, — and even bankers, look really upon the Rising Young Man with little income but little capital who wants to buy a $40,000-ish house. Such men can obtain personal loans to finish out their all capital. Mr. Drake points out, and can frequently obtain second mortgages.

But how about the Non-Rising Young Man, the one who can afford only about $30,000 for a house? Where is he in the Princeton mortgage market?

"He's absolutely out," states

Mr. Cook flatly. "Hamilton

Township is loaded with houses, like that and that you can get a 80-, 20-year mortgage there, but that's all there is."

"This tight money will definitely affect our real-estate market," Mr. Cook adds, "and will probably halt the tremendous increase in real-estate prices in Princeton in the past few years."

"So far in Princeton," says

Mr. Drake, "tight money has not knocked out the sound buyer. Of course, if you need 70% of a $60,000 house, you're going to be less aggressive in buying. I think a buyer will take a much more circumspect look at a house. And I think people generally will stay put for a while."

The stay-putters in Princeton are most likely to be the families who would like to upgrade — to move into a bigger house — or perhaps to move out of Princeton.

5,000 STRONG

Faster Little Minds. Princeton's school population has topped the 5,000 mark. Dr. John F. McKenna, superintendent, told the Princeton Regional School Board Tuesday night that 5,076 pupils were enrolled in the new school system as of September 19.

Of this number, 1,833 are at Princeton High School, almost 25% more than the number for which the school was built.

"Overcrowding at the high school is still our most serious problem," emphasized Dr. Harvey D. Rothberg, Board president.

He added that the state has still not announced its decision on the status of Montgomery Township pupils at the high school.

Where to Put Them? In Princeton High School, there are about 200 class sections that have more than 25 pupils and 56 that have more than 30. Social Studies classes include most 15 sections in Social Studies have more than 30 boys and girls. English is next, with 11 sections numbering more than 30.

A comprehensive study of the high school's physical needs will be made this fall by consultants from the state's department of education. The results will be ready by budget time, Dr. McKenna said.

He told the Board that a five-man state team will examine the high school's vocational education facilities; a two-man team will look over the library, an audio-visual expert will examine the school from his point of view, and the state department's own building consultant will direct the overall college-level study.

Science labs are in particular need of rejuvenation. Dr. Rothberg repeated. When Board member E. Frederick Laschever asked why only three students took Advanced Placement Tests in sciences out of the total of 87 who took the tests, Kenneth Michael, principal of the high school, said that more students would be taking these tests in future years as increased lab facilities enable the high school to offer advanced courses in science.

New Courses. For the first time this fall, the high school is offering Advanced Biology. Mr. Michael said. Twenty students have enrolled in the course.

Other new courses at PHIS this fall: Latin-American Cultures, an art course for people who may or may not have art ability, a one-semester Dramatics course taught by Donna Evans of the English Department (80 students signed up). Electronics (with 71 boys) and Distributive Education.

Mr. Michael observed that many students are taking these electives rather than spending in an idle hour in a study hall. Incidentally, 11 of those 67 students who took Advanced Placement Tests scored "five" — the highest possible grade and one described by Mr. McKenna as almost "unattainable." It is a record number of "fives" for the high school, he said.

Where's the Bus? The bus problem seems to be more and more acute. Dr. McKenna told the Board there is now a "serious shortage" of contract buses and a shortage of conscientious part-time drivers who will go where they are told to go and not veer off on routes of their own, leaving some fourth-grader stranded on a street corner.

"The Board should seriously consider doubling our present fleet, in fact, should own enough buses to service all our routes," Dr. McKenna recommended.

The school system now has 27 daily routes. The Board owns and services 10 of them. On Tuesday night, the Board approved renewal of the 17 contracts at $59,900.50. The state reimburses to about 60% of this figure.

Norman J. Anderson, Board secretary, said there is $4,900 left in capital outlay which could be used toward purchase of a bus, and he suggested that he could find $1,200 "elsewhere."

The Board accepted the $30,400 low bid for installing state-required fire alarm-detection system in the high school. In June, the Board had rejected a bid for $34,800. For Electric of Red Bank was the job.

Board will present at each meeting an hour-long "in-depth presentation" of one aspect of the school system. In October, the science curriculum for grades 7-12 will be explained.

Dr. McKenna told the Board that the state's Department of Motor Vehicles will survey the traffic problem around the John Witherspoon high school area and make recommendations. The Township Traffic Safety Committee requested one state's aid.

WHO GETS TO MOVE IN?

Engineering Building. The Borough's brick structure on Witherspoon Street known as the Engineering Building would be just right as a home for the administrative offices of the Princeton Regional School Board, in the opinion of the Board and its president, Dr. Harvey Rothberg.

However, the United Fund thinks it might be just right for Fund offices and perhaps some Fund advisory offices, and Mayor Henry S. Patterson thinks it would be just right as a community center, and other people think it might be just the place for a teen lounge.

In a letter to the mayor this week, Dr. Rothberg set down formally the Board's hope that it can acquire at least part of the Engineering building after the new Borough Hall has been completed and the Borough engineer has moved out. At present, Board offices are out on Stockton Street in the Silver Brook Administration Building used for many years by the former Township School Board. But the building is too small and too remote to serve the Board satisfactorily, Dr. Rothberg said.

Tuesday morning, William Coker, executive director at the United Fund, met with Mayor Patterson to discuss the future of the Engineering Building. The Fund office is now located there.

OUT OF THE GREEK. . .
Info Today, "I love the play:
'Agamemnon' is the best of the Greek plays — turbulent and magnificent — and I translated it because I love it!"
Robert Fagles is the smiling, energetic, intense young scholar whose translation of Aeschylus'
"Agamemnon" will be McCarte Theatre's opening play this fall. It will inaugurate the repertory season on Friday, October 7 at 8 p.m.

Dr. Fagles is an associate professor of English at Princeton and director of the University's program in comparative literature.

Alan Dowling is also a professor of English, and in a sense, a professor of McCarte Theatre's program. Executive director of McCarte,

This spring, when Dr.
Fagles knew his working draft would be finished by the end of summer, the three agreed on a McCarte production this fall.

"It 'Acts' and 'Reads,'" he has tried to achieve both an acting version AND a reading version of the "Agamemnon."
Dr. Fagles explains, and he adds, smiling, "My approach is not that of 'cribs or trots': If you're studying Greek, don't come to this production for a literal version of the 'Agamem-non' or you'll flunk!"

"To translate the 'Agamem-non' in any way except into English poetry of the highest order is to do it a disservice and to translate it into prose would be impertinent," Dr.
Fagles is intensely serious on this point.

"To make him intelligible in poetry and to write poetry that, with luck and a lot of work, may suggest one iota of the terrible glory of Aeschylus,
... that has been Dr.
Fagles' aim."

To this young scholar, translation is a performing art and a translation is a musical score.
Has he cut "Agamemnon"?
Quite the contrary: he has expanded it.

Greek is so compressed and condensed language, Dr.
Fagles explains, that the mere act of interpreting the score — that is, translating it into English expands it.

The Chorus' Role. He has enlarged it in another way, too, by stressing the chorus especially in its moments of lyric reflection and terror. He

THE MAN BEHIND AESCHYLUS: Robert Fagles is the young Princeton University professor whose "Agamemnon" translation will be presented by McCarte Theatre.

has done this, like a composer of music, by dwelling on a certain phrase, perhaps, or finding an image to emphasize.

"This has given the actors in the chorus a lot more work to do," he says with a smile.
And in these chorus passages, Dr. Fagles has tried to make the language as close as possible to music because Aeschylus' choruses were all set to music and to dance.

Or, again, he has underscored Aeschylus' use of the ironic image. "Agamemnon" uses the lion to emphasize the female ferocity of Clytemnestra and the masculine ambition of Agamemnon, and I have tried to play this for all its worth!"

At Work in the Theatre, throughout "Agamemnon" rehearsals, Dr. Fagles has been an eager member of the audience. "I'm new to the theatre," he admits, "But I know it's a strain to mount a Greek tragedy, and I'm there at Mc-Carte to help by answering actors' questions and to learn about the theatre, myself."

Actors have many simple questions of fact: where are we, in history? Who was this particular god, anyhow?

"But more than that" and here Dr. Fagles' eye takes on the unmistakable glow of the theatre buff, "actors want to know the psychology of a character — and Aeschylus is silent on these things. The motivation line always here Aeschylus is wonderfully and strongly naïve; he believes you should exhibit rather than explain! And yet, he could distill meaning out of silence — that's more than modern man seems able to do."

"Well, actors want to know

IT'S NEW To Us

NEED A RUG?

Ask the King. When Richard Helbig, "The Remnant King," decided to turn his years of experience in someone else's rug business into a business of his own, he visited the rug shops and all his potential competitors, not to see what they had, but to see what they didn't have.

The result is The Remnant King... a store where you can buy the unusual rug lengths, widths and areas you had despaired of finding.

For example — here you'll find remnants of 12 or 15-foot wide broadlooms cut in three, four, five or six-foot "lengths." If you have a handsome old house with a narrow hallway, you may buy fully-headed hall runners 27 or 36 inches wide, by 12 or 15 feet.

Since these runners have been made from top-flight carpeting, you'll find yourself paying only $15 for a 27" by 15" strip of carpeting worth about $50. If you had it custom-cut from a carpet roll, the price would undoubtedly be prohibitive.

Or again — those nine-foot widths that aren't made any more, are at The Remnant King. In sizes like 9x23 — ever hear of a better find for a long, narrow room?

Scatter-rugs made from carpet samples are a wonderful buy at The Remnant King. Here's a 4x6 for $10. Well, the carpeting is in the $12-a-square-yard bracket, so you're getting $32 worth of rug for only $10.

These scatterers come in sizes that start from 27 by 36 inches and climb right up the size ladder to 6 by 6 feet. Use one for the kid's room, another in front of a favorite chair, another under the piano bench and, of course, one at your bedside.

Stairs are a problem, too, in lots of homes. Remnant King has packaged stair trends in a tremendous number of trendy colors, or even solids. You pay $10 for a package containing 13 stair treads and 14 four-inch kick-plates to go on the risers. Economy? You know the answer. If you've ever priced stair carpeting.

Well, what's exciting in the rug market these days? Remnant King will look over the 264 rugs hanging from his vertical file, and he'll tell you "tweeds." They don't show the dirt, they suit the informality of country or suburban rooms, they ride happily with any solid colors you choose.

Next come the embossed or "cobblestone" effects, and coming on strong are the new shags, many of them in ombre textures to lighten and brighten a casual room. We saw one beauty in bright rust-orange and another in the thickest, most luxurious nylon pile green. (Most of these rugs are nylon because it takes the twist well.)

Rainbow candy-stripe is more versatile than its name would indicate. We saw a fine one, its stripes only as wide as the yarn strand itself, woven out of 39 to 40 colors and a multiplicity of textures: tweeds against ombers, solids against solids.

In overall effect, it looks like an old-fashioned rag rug and it would be wonderful in a Colonial room with old pine or maple. But its close harmony of texture and color makes it equally at home with Danish, modern and teak.

As an indication of price at Remnant King, this rug is $39 for an 8x10. It comes in other sizes, too, and has been woven exclusively for Remnant King. Incidentally, if you have small bedrooms, you'll find a wealth of these 8x10 sizes at the store — more than you can choose from!

That brings us, of course, to volume. We mentioned the 264 rugs on the racks. That doesn't include the 750 remnants on the back wall in nine, 12 or 15-foot widths or the 1,900 colors and patterns in the special-order broadlooms. After all, there are 9,000 square feet of space in the store!

The Remnant King is on Route 33 across from the big Mercerville Shopping Center (left, Remnant King is directly Go out Quaker Bridge Road to)

Route One, cross the highway and keep going (don't be deterred by the detour signs; they lead you straight) until you reach the big Route 33 intersection with the traffic light and the supermarkets on your left. Remnant King is directly screened this Friday starting at 7.

"Tom Jones" with Albert Finney will be on the McCarter screen this Saturday at 8 and Orson Welles' "The Magnificent Ambersons" will inaugurate the Orson Welles Retrospective next Tuesday at 8.
Ian and Sylvia and their folkings will be the McCarter attraction on Friday, October 14 at 8.

KABARETT KOMING
German Students Here, "Die Fremdauler," a student kabarett from the University of Frankfurt will present its program at Murray Theatre this Friday, Saturday and Sunday.
The performance will be in English at 8:30 p.m. and on Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in German.

The kabarett's program is a revue of comedy skits and satirical songs similar to "Beyond the Fringe" and "That Was The Week That Was."
The Frankfurt student troupe often entitles such dramatic forms as the theatre of the absurd and the plays of Brecht, and is less political than the conventional German kabarett.

PRINCE
Butterfield 8 and Cal On a Hot Tin Roof (double feature)

ing pace, unloading its comic situations in a manner that will delight both young and old.

Thousand Clowns (now playing) It was several years ago when a witty, whimsical play called "A Thousand Clowns" came to Broadway, beginning a year-long run. The screen version allows much exploring of the bustle and scramble of New York City.

The cast includes four from the original: Jason Roberts in the lead as the unemployed, non-conforming TV writer; Barry Gordon as his precocious young nephew; William Daniels as the stuffy social worker and Gene Lake as the objectionable TV performer. Barbara Harris appears as the other half of the social worker team that investigates Roberts.
Roberts lives in a one-room walkup in New York with his nephew in a happy state of chitter until the Child Welfare Bureau team comes calling. There are kooky moments of romance, soul searching, abandonment of conventions and repression being freed.

Also, there are fine performances and a fluidity of camera movement that merge into a film many will enjoy, although the end result is not for the very young.

GARDEN
The Sleeping Car Murder (now playing) is a tough and fast thriller made in France. The cast is headed by Simone Signoret and Yves Montand. The dialogue is French, and the English sub-titles are adequate.

The picture begins with a murder in a Pullman train headed for Paris from Marseilles. The victim is an attractive perfume saleswoman. Suspects include the five other occupants of her compartment, including a young man on the run who is hidden in an upper berth without being taken through the aid of a pretty miss.
For a while it looks as if the picture is a typical who-done-it, but the fast action keeps you guessing all the way to a risky ending that would have pleased Agatha Christie. In the interim, nearly all of the suspects are murdered.
The acting is excellent. Miss Signoret as an aging beauty susceptible to the advances of young men is remarkably sensitive and affecting.

PLAYHOUSE
The Russians Are Coming and A Thousand Clowns (double feature now playing) brings back two hit movies.
The Russians Are Coming (now playing) This very funny film concerns a Russian submarine grounded off the coast of New England and the resulting hysteria when members of the crew come ashore. The William Rose script is based on Nathaniel Benchley's book, "The Off-Islanders."
The cast includes Carl Reiner, Jonathan Winters, Eva Marie Saint, Tessie O'Shea, Brian Keith and Theodore Bikel, all of whom handle the comedy with a wonderful light touch. Broadway comedian Alan Arkin (of "Enter Laughlin" and "Lar") scores as the crafty Russian who comes ashore seeking a motorboat to free the sub.
The tale moves at an engaging

WE DO!

What happened here? A crossroads crash... a life lost, a car and truck demolished. It's the old story of a right-hand pass at the corner — trucks swinging wide-off Nassau Street into Bayard Lane, or at Washington and Faculty Roads.

As this truck swung into the turn, the car shot between it and the corner. The truck brakes jammed on, the empty truck jackknifed and rolled over. Heartbreak and financial loss.

Here's a car driver who ignored the imminent. We'll never really know whether he was day-dreaming, drunk or drowsy.

Be alert. Keep your eyes moving — ahead, and when necessary, behind, to the sides — prepare yourself for the distant problem that, even at slow speeds, may be in your lap in a matter of seconds. Another tip: train yourself to watch the left front wheel of oncoming cars. Learn to anticipate any surprise turn before a car begins to swerve into your lane.

Take care. We care!

Safety Suggestions That May Save You From Loss or Accident

FIRE

YOU HAVE ONLY SECONDS!

Are you aware that a good home fire alarm system alerts you to "hot" fires, but not to "cool" ones, such as a cigarette smoldering in upholstery? Smoke detectors will set off an alarm much sooner.

But even with a top-notch alarm system, you must not let down your safeguards. You may have only seconds after the alarm sounds to make your escape.

Unless you know exactly what route to take, you may panic. An escape plan is a vital adjunct to any home fire alarm system. You need a primary route (usually stairways), and an alternative (perhaps a bedroom window). Figure your routes today. Time them!

Beware of buying cheap, unlabeled single-station fire alarms. Use extraordinary caution before you buy. Be sure you have a written contract guaranteeing that the system will be installed according to Underwriters Laboratories' specifications. Check all parts—wires, detectors, alarms, etc. to be sure they bear the UL label. Fire experts say that a quick test of the system once a week is not too often.

Always remember firefighters' No. 1 rule: test the door panel and knob for heat. If they are warm, and you open the door, flames or suffocating smoke await you on the other side.

THEFT

"SOME FOOL..."

A skilled burglar reported in "Look" magazine:

"Any time you see a light, a burglar won't mess with it. At least that was always my opinion. If people would leave a bathroom light on, that's the best. And leave the door cracked just a little where the light shines out. . . If you're planning on being out that evening, leave the bathroom light on and the bed messed up. If a guy is bold enough to bust into a house with a light on, he'll see the bed messed up and the bathroom door opened partway and he usually won't stay."

"But if the light's in the living room, a burglar can walk a side of the house and look in, and if he doesn't see anybody, he knows there's nobody at that house. Burglars are shrewd enough to know. Not all of them are idiots."

"Timers that turn on a lamp are wonderful because you shouldn't leave a light burning in the daytime. There are burglars who work in the daytime too, I have. But the lamp should be some place where they can't see into the room. I won't take a chance on a timer. Somebody might be there, and why take a chance, when right down the street there's some fool that hasn't got one?"

STREETS

LUCK ISN'T ALWAYS A LADY

In a typical two-week period, TOWN TOPICS reported for Princeton Borough and Township alone: a four-car crash (eight injured); a head-on collision (2 injured); a two-car collision at Kingston Bridge (2 injured); a pedestrian struck by a car (skull fracture); a car out of control (1 injured plus extensive property damage); automobile skidding (2 passengers injured); an automobile fire, damage to a parked car and 25 municipal court cases based on motor vehicle driving violations.

What are the odds here? If you drive 12,000 miles a year — and many people do — the odds are 1 to 3 that you'll have some kind of an accident. If you drive 8,000 miles a year, the odds are 1 to 5. If your yearly mileage is 4,000 miles, the odds are 1 to 10.

Survival depends on your observance of the Invisible Speed Limit. In heavy traffic, stay with the crowd, even when it means going 3 or 4 miles over the posted speed limit. If you pass often, or get passed often something's wrong.

Rain, snow and ice make a posted speed limit meaningless. They reduce traction and cut visibility. Invisible speed limits are your only protection.

Sudden changes of speed, such as when you leave US 1 or the Turnpike, are hard to adjust to. You're used to the sound and feel of high speed and 50 or 55 mph seems slow-poke. Make a conscious effort to shake off the feel of speed. Believe the speedometer!

BICYCLES

CHILDREN PLAY TAG WITH DANGER

Away from home, children don't worry whether they're safe. You're bound to run into opposition when you caution them. You absolutely cannot depend on warnings to protect your child.

Children learn best by example, especially the example you show them as parents. Do you obey the traffic laws? If not, your children will skin through the yellow light, too. Do you have your car checked regularly? Your example will help them understand why their bikes must have the same treatment. Do you use your turn signals — every time? Youngsters on bikes should use turn signals, too.

Are you preoccupied when you drive? Children sometimes ride their bikes as if they were in an empty field.

Set the pace — for their safety.

the inadequacy of space at the real estate office's present location. He added that the 400-Block address would be closer to the facilities for which the department is responsible: Hibben and Magic Apartments, Stanworth and the married student housing under construction on lower Alexander.

Mrs. Anne Vandell, 11 Mercer, represented by attorney Seymour Montgomery, opposed the University. Mr. Montgomery argued that there "couldn't be any serious difference in convenience" if the real estate office were moved to 4 Mercer, as far as the University housing is concerned. He pointed out there were only five exceptions to the zoning laws in the entire residential section west of University Place and Bayard Lane.

Any planning of a variance under special reason must be one that advances the public, not the private good. Mr. Montgomery continued, "I can't see in any way how this is going to benefit the public."

WILLS BE TENANT, Mr. Sands revealed that the Columbia Broadcasting System wanted to use the basement of 194 Nassau Street for offices for some 15 to 20 of its research people, provided Mr. Sands could obtain the necessary off-street parking required by the zoning laws in this instance 17.

Mr. Sands, speaking through his attorney, Thomas C. Jamison, outlined three alternatives. One, an appointment of 17 spaces of the public parking lot on Park Place, two, an arrangement where he would lease the spaces in the area behind Alexander's Diner, 173 Nassau - both locations being within the required 400-foot distance of 194 Nassau - or, three, a waiving of the off-street parking requirements.

Gordon Griffin, attorney for the Borough, urged the board to deny Mr. Sands' requests. He said there was concern on the part of the Mayor and Council for the availability of parking on one of its busiest streets and in one of its busiest blocks.

Mr. Griffin pointed out that the 77 spaces available in the part that his car, parked behind the Cannon Club on Prospect Avenue, had been stolen. Police located the car later the same morning on Witherspoon Street, minus Mr. Emley's tweed jacket which he valued at $40. His date for the weekend, Miss Nancy Stoker of Bel Air, Md., listed these losses: a '59 brown suit, a $50 raincoat, a $15 sweater, a $15 camera and a red leather wallet containing $2.

Stuart Robertson of Edison called police to report that a suitcase was stolen from his car while he was attending the Princeton-Burgers game. Police said Mr. Robertson gave no value for the suitcase but said it had contained clothing for a weekend trip. His car was parked in the lot at the corner of Olden and William Streets.

In another weekend incident, Chief Peter J. McCrohen reported that Rutgers students had dosed the tiger on Palmer Square with two cases of red enamel paint.

We didn't catch the ones who did that," he said, "but we did catch four boys on Prospect Avenue around 5 o'clock in the morning each with a can of white paint." Chief McCrohen added the four who were turned over to University

Political Comment Begins

TOWN TOPICS traditional 'Why I Plan to Vote' series begins its 15th year with its appearance this week on page 22.

In the first two articles of the report series, the merits of the respective candidates for Congress will be discussed. Tomorrow for the first time, because this week is the Rev. Ernest Gordon, Dean of the chapel at Princeton University, while Democratic backing comes from the team of James Anderson, assistant to the president of Princeton Theological Seminary, and Mrs. Anderson.

Comment will follow on Princeton's unique municipal races — unique because every one of the eight candidates seeking office is on the ticket for the first time. Borough battle lines will be drawn in the issues of October 13 and 20, while the polls and counts of the Township campaign will be debated on October 27 and November 3.

proctors who, in turn, turned them over to officials of Rutgers for disciplinary action.

REGIONAL SEWER?

Concern is Explained. Mayors of the 20 communities in the Stony Brook-Millstone watershed will meet in Princeton on Thursday, October 13, to decide what to do next about regional sewers.

Last Wednesday, about 150 municipal officials in the four-county watershed area, gathered in the Engineering Quadrangle to talk over the new regional sewer study prepared for the Stony Brook-Millstone Sewerage Study Committee.

The study actually a feasibility study only—proposes a $70-million regional sewer project for the 285 square miles in the watershed area.

This includes parts of Mercer, Somerset, Monmouth, Middlesex and Hunterdon Counties and communities as far north as Manville as far south as Roswell and beyond, and west to Hopewell Township—Pennington, in particular—east to the boundaries of Franklin and North Brunswick.

Pennington Needs Help. The study is especially important to Pennington, because Pennington, along with the Borough of Hopewell and Rocky Hill, has been ordered by the state health department to build a sewer system to halt pollution of Stony Brook and the Millstone.

William Schuller, Councilman for Pennington Borough, told Wednesday night's meeting that Pennington liked the idea of a regional system, but was afraid it cost so much that it would be built in time to bail Pennington out. He estimated that a regional system would cost each Pennington taxpayer $200 more than a local system.

Robert S. Shaw, from theington would not decide later with Rutgers officials to discuss the plan.

state's health, said that Federal aid might possibly pay of its own until Pennington's 80% of the cost, however, officials could examine the enabling legislation feasibility study in more detail for an allowance like this still bill.

WILL INSTITUTE MOVE?

Part of the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute at Skillman, under the regional plan, a Psychiatric Institute at Skillman would be built near the Rutgers on the Millstone north of campus to be close to the Rocky Hill. Each community would install its own sewer. The Board of Control of the State would connect to two large state's Department of Institutions and Agencies is scheduled to meet this Wednesday.

According to Dr. Robert Bennett, director of the Institute, and Lloyd Westcott, president of the Board of Control, probably the Institute's Bureau of Research would be the only department to move out of Skillman and into Rutgers. The Bureau of Research, with a staff of about 130, occupies three and one-half buildings on the Institute Grounds. Only one of these, Dr. Bennett said, would be suitable for patients. The Institute

CAR HIT CYCLIST

Let Her Be Broken. A Princeton University student, Michael Duseberry, 20, 213 Pyne Hall, was struck by a car early Monday evening while he was riding a bicycle on the Pennington-Lawrenceville Road.

Mr. Duseberry was hit as he was crossing the intersection of Denow Road by a car driven by Mrs. Harriet G. Rosenzweig, 54, of Trenton. He was thrown on the hood of the car and tumbled down in front of it. He told police that when he saw the car was not going to stop, he put on his brakes and was at a standstill at the moment of impact.

He was taken by ambulance to Princeton Hospital where his condition was described the following day as satisfactory. The hospital reported his left leg was broken.

Mrs. Rosenzweig told police she did not see the cyclist because the sun was in her eyes. Continued on Page 14

PLACED ON PROBATION

For Check Posing, A Philadelphia man was placed on probation for one year by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. Monday for issuing worthless checks this summer in the Borough.

Peter Halloran, 48, was also sentenced to 57 days in jail, the number of days he had spent in Mercer County Jail waiting for his hearing to come up. During that period, Halloran had been unable to raise the $300 bail imposed on him.

Three merchants were complainants Alan G. Frank of Langmuir's reported he was the victim of a $236 worthless check; William G. Rohm, manager of the Nassau Inn, said Halloran had cashed a check there for $100.12; and Byron Crandall of Cousins Liquor store on Palmer Square reported cashing a check for $16.62.

In other cases in criminal court, Gilson Delaney, 20, 30 Mercer Street, pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny and was fined $30. A second charge of assault, lodged by his wife, Donna, was adjourned.

A charge of assault against Francis E. Brown, 86 Stockton Street, was dismissed when the complainant, Miss Mary Ann Pellett of Plainsboro, refused to press charges. She was ordered to pay $10 court costs.

In traffic court, Miss Bernice V. Gardner, 41, Route 27, was fined $15 for careless driving. Chester E. Woolen Jr., 22 1/2 Witherspoon Street, paid $15 for taking on passengers in the middle of a roadway. Obstructing traffic cost motorist Sanford A. Ferrand, 56, of Clarksville Road, $10.

In the only case involving a Princeton area resident in Township Court last week, Mrs. Margaret C. Beller, 68, Ridgeview Road, was fined $10 for a stop sign violation. Magistrate Glen B. Miller Jr. presided.

SOCIAL WORKER NEEDED

Question Discussed, Should Princeton have a full-time social worker, in addition to the full-time Borough juvenile police officer already promised?

The question was discussed Wednesday night in Mayor Henry S. Patterson's office by a group of eight, including the mayor, Borough Police Commissioner and Councilman William H. Walker and half a dozen invited citizens. Mrs. Edelle Johnson, Mrs. Irby Huxton, John Counts, Gordon Mack, Mrs. John Trimble and Seymour Alpert.

If a social worker were employed on Page 12.

This Is Princeton

ation. Perhaps the man of the house is one of those go-getting young men who could afford a bigger split-level.

But who has the mortgage money to buy the modest house he wants to sell? So he is waiting it out.

Fewer New Houses In so way that is quite concrete, Princeton has felt a slow-down in home buying. Princeton Township's building permits were significantly down in May and June of this year.

"We always have an upward spurt in those two months," comments W. Joseph Shinn, managing executive, "but this year, the number was down by more than half."

In May 1965, Mr. Shinn issued 11 building permits for single-family houses. In May 1966, only four. In June of last year, the count was 13. In June of this year, five.

"Scope" the weekly newsletter of the National Association of Home Builders says in its current issue, "It is apparent that home-building activity has not yet bottomed out and there is little indication when the bottom will be reached and a rebound started."

This magazine does not see an upturn until next spring. Mr. Shinn won't even hazard a guess about a Princeton upturn.

Optimism-Pessimism. One Princeton builder says the situation may weed out the fringe contractor. He says his own chief problem is finding money for people who want to buy his homes. With other builders, he says, the chief problem is to find money to pay interest on their own construction loans.

This builder expressed pessimism about the money situation. "The buying public is scared out of its wits," he says gloomily, and he suggested that newspapers might be doing the economy a disservice even to publish stories about "tight money." Most, however, men are optimistic in Princeton. "The long-range outlook is bullish," states Mr. Cooley. "All these war-babies are building families of their own now — the average age of the population in this country is only about 26 — and long-range, we're inevitably going to have a boom."

COFFEES PLANNED

For Democratic candidates, Mrs. Geraldine Boone and George Goldsmith, Democratic candidates for the Township Committee, will appear at two informal coffees to meet and talk to Princeton voters. At an earlier coffee, the candidates discussed the Township's youth problems and expressed their support for a full-time juvenile officer.

The first coffee will be held at the home of Mrs. Meredith Langberg, 74 Wheatfield Lane, on Thursday at 8 p.m. Those wishing to attend should telephone Mrs. Langberg, 921-3775. Mrs. Bernard Barenheils will

Like History?

The Historical Society of Princeton needs a girl guide and a batch of field calculations, not necessarily from the same family tree.

For its professional (i.e., paid) guide the Society is looking for a personable young lady who has graduated from college and perhaps majored in history. A minor in transportation would be helpful, because it will be her job to conduct bus-tours to various historic sites around Princeton.

Personable young female historians should call Mrs. Gordon Knox, 924-1072. Fill out a card and send it, with size and folder size, are needed to hold the Society's new Resource File of Historic Information. Anyone wishing to donate and "donate" is a key word — should call Mrs. Marguerite McAneny, 924-3947.

hold another coffee at her home at 444 Rosedale Road on Tuesday at 8 p.m. Those interested should call her at 924-1688.

LOCKER ROOM ENTERED

In High School Saturday While the Princeton High School football team was playing its first game of the season at Hamilton High School Saturday afternoon, someone came through a window at PHS and entered its locker room. Coach Dick Wood reported the incident at 5:24.

Detective Russell Shangle and Sgt. Robert Anderson investigated and reported that eight lockers had been forced open and rifled. As far as police have been able to determine, nothing was taken. Chief Peter J. McCrohan said that apparently the boys had enough sense not to leave any money behind.

Police added, however, that a stereo dietary machine valued at $300 was missing from the office of a guidance teacher. The office is located near the boys' locker room, police said.

FINANCE DRIVE PLANNED

By League of Women Voters The annual finance drive of the League of Women Voters will begin on Saturday, Oct. 8. Mrs. Carl Helm is chairman of the campaign.

The League, a non-profit organization, encourages awareness and participation in public affairs. Its members study problems of local, state and national government.

The League's Voters Service encourages voting by distributing information and assisting with registration. The Service has arranged candidate meetings for school board applicants and is planning meetings with candidates for other offices in Princeton, Montgomery and West Windsor.

Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Helm, 207 Mount Lutes Road. League members will hold its annual meeting on Tuesday at 1:15 in the hospital cafeteria.

AUXILIARY TO MEET

WV Plan to Vote REPUBLICAN DEMOCRATIC

By Ernest Gordon

By Jim & Sally Andrews

I intend to vote for Ralph Chandler for our Representative from the New York Congressional District because he has demonstrated in Princeton the kind of leadership that we need and lack so much in Washington.

His kind of leadership as I have witnessed it appears to stem from a strong personal belief in people as individuals and not mere pawns in a political or military game. I believe that in these perilous times in which we live there is an imperative need for this kind of good moral leadership.

Although still a young man, Ralph Chandler has a long background of personal commitment to the human element which the American form of government was originally designed to represent. This commitment has resulted in the development of one man of personality able to hold in balance the fields of government and religion as two aspects of the common human cause. His present candidacy, I believe, is the natural outcome of this devotion.

For evidence, one need only cite the tremendous interest Ralph has demonstrated in one of this community's greatest problems, the lack of suitable jobs for "unskilled" teenagers to gather.

Rather than carp and criticize those of Princeton's youth or set who could not honestly conform to the accepted modes of social participation in tightly-structured programs of entertainment and recreation largely dictated by adults, Ralph Chandler fought for the creation of an informal league center where young people could feel was their own.

But long before this political concern was shown by his service as president of his Student Government in both high school and college. Later, having distinguished himself as one of the youngest officers to hold a major command position in the United States Navy.

His career since leaving the Navy has been a combination of involvement with people on a personal level and service to the governmental forms under which they live. He has helped people with their Army problems as a member of a medical school psychiatric staff and minister. As a desk officer for the Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs and a parliamentarian of the New Jersey General Assembly, he has gained practical experience in dealing with the administrative and executive procedures of the American form of government.

But his interests do not stop at the level of training and gaining practical experience. He has been limited to the domestic affairs of the United States alone. During his graduate studies in political science at Rutgers University he plunged into a detailed analysis of the situation that has resulted in America's present involvement and future prospects in Viet Nam and the whole of Southeast Asia. The insights gained through this study have led him to take an independent stand apart from the so-called doves or hawks on the Viet Nam conflict, which places him in a position to lead his people to understand the Asian people that calls for mediated peace and revolutionary redemptions within the segment of the human society. He is now concerned with "making the world safe for democracy" as much as with making it a safe place for his people to earn a decent living and raise their children in respect and dignity for their common humanity.

Our political task today is not to lead from a position of military or political power, but from a policy based on moral courage. I am distressed by the political expediency that is so much an expression of our time. It is expressed through the poor diplomatic initiative continued on Page 2

Economic and social progress at home, and the war in Viet Nam, are on the mind of every voter. Warren Wenzel, Democratic candidate for the Senate will bring a more positive voice in international affairs. Frank Thompson, Democratic candidate for re-election to the House of Representatives, will continue the kind of leadership that has made him one of the nation's outstanding Congressmen.

Born in Trenton and educated in both public and parochial schools, Thompson has been a Congressional leader in education, cultural affairs, and racial peace. He has been publicly praised by such groups as the National and New Jersey Education Association, Artists' Equity of New Jersey, the National Art Education Association, and the United Civil Rights Leadership.

Thompson earned BA and law degrees at Wake Forest. He will never again do not provide educational facilities for other states because we do not provide educational facilities for them.

Thompson sponsored the National Defense Education Act in the House, making higher education available to children of families who cannot afford college costs. He was the prime mover for the Impact Act, an Assistant Secretary and sponsored the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, which provides further help for local schools through federal grants. He was the 1965 National Education Association's "Man of the Year."

Thompson sponsored the establishment of the National Council of the Arts and the House bill that reorganized the Council into the National Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Thompson's efforts led to the establishment of America's major cultural center in Washington, the official national memorial to the late President — the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

Warren Wenzel, also an attorney by education and background, has ten years of public service. He is currently Essex County prosecutor and now as Middlesex County Council, where he has instituted a legal aid service. He was instrumental in obtaining a $2 million federal housing grant for the Roosevelt Community College, native of New Jersey, he is a World War II veteran, holding three battle stars and the Purple Heart.

Wenzel is running for a Senate seat that has been disturbingly quiet on the major foreign issue of our day — the war in Viet Nam. The incumbent has not supported or opposed the President's policy, and suggests the means of bringing peace of victory over Communism in Asia. It is time New Jersey's Senate delegation should have a stronger voice in national affairs.

Both of these men will be responsive to the needs of the people at home, having first-hand understanding of New Jersey's problems. Thompson, who served three terms in the state legislature before being elected to Congress in 1954, has stayed in touch with his district through frequent visits and regular "majority" opinion requests mailed to every voter.

Thompson was a Naval officer in World War II and the Korean War, winning three combat decorations as commander of rocket-launching ships at Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

Thompson is concerned with the future of American political life. He had close ties to — Continued on Page 2

MUSIC In Princeton

OPERA PROGRAM LISTED
By Rosini Workshop. The Rosini Opera Workshop will perform scenes from "Tosca," "Madame Butterfly" and "La

Traviata" on Saturday at 8:30 at the Unitarian Church of Princeton. Tickets, $1.50 for the public and 75 cents for students, will be available at the door.

The Rosini Workshop was founded in New York in 1958. Co-director Luigi Rosini is a great grand-nephew of the composer Gioacchino Rossini. Its purpose is to prepare talented singers for professional opera companies.

The Workshop produced the first opera to be performed on NBC television. Other programs have been presented at the National Arts Club, the N. Y. Athletic Association, the Southern Vermont Art Center and on ABC television.

CHAMBER MUSIC FIRST
In University Series. Princeton's first concert of the season will be an evening of chamber music, to be presented at McCarter Theatre Monday, October 10 at 8:30 by the Princeton Chamber Orchestra under Christopher Stapp.

This is the first concert in Series II of the Princeton University Concert Series.

The ensemble, composed of 15 strings, will play a Haydn Divertimento, the Italian Serenade of Hugo Wolf, Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto in D Minor (first published in 1892 after musicological research), Toccata for String Orchestra by Hans Sussmayer and the Bach Concerto in D Minor for Two Violins and String Orchestra.

Supported by the city of Munich to perform a repertoire of old masters ending with the Baroque period, the ensemble has expanded its portfolio to include appropriate works from the classic and modern periods.

"MEET THE COMPOSER"
Community Is Invited. A series of performances and discussions by student composers has been planned by the Woodrow Wilson Society of Princeton University. The first "Meet the Composer" program will be held with

Choral Group Expanding

The Princeton YMCA's Choral Group will hold musical interviews for prospective new members on Tuesday evening from 7 to 8 at the Y. The group, which now includes 30 voices, is planning to expand to 40.

The group's director, J. Beau Lackey, is especially anxious to recruit qualified male voices. The repertoire is also being enlarged to include a wide variety of pieces ranging from classical and religious music to lighter or compositions.

The Choral group meets regularly on Tuesday evenings. In addition, it performs on request at community functions and programs.

David Saperstein of Princeton's class of 1969 on Saturday at 8:30 in the lounge of Wilcox Hall on the Princeton campus.

Mr. Saperstein, a three-time winner of the Broadway Music Student Composer Award, will play and analyze three of his piano works, including the prize-winning "Catechism." The atmosphere will be informal, and listeners will be able to ask questions and make comments.

During the series, the committee will explain their work more by demonstration than abstraction. They will replay important segments to illustrate their remarks. Admission to all the programs is free, and all are invited.

I'M ANNT NETTIE

Singer Miss Rife. It's been a year, oratorio and church music all the way for Virginia Cole, but the Princeton singer is bracing out this fall with a role in the musical comedy "Carousell."

Miss Cole auditioned for the part of Aunt Nettie in the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, and was given the first week in October at Rider College, and she was accepted quicker than you can say "climbhike."

"Carousell" will serve as the christening production for the new 500-seat fine arts theatre at Rider and it will open on Sunday, October 2, playing all through that week to a closing performance on Saturday, October 8.

In the part of Aunt Nettie, Miss Cole has such melodies to sing as "June Is Bustled Out All Over," "When You Walk Through a Storm" and parts of "Climblike." She is a soprano, although the part of Aunt Nettie is usually thought of as a contralto role.

Lee Opp is stage director for this production and Gordon MacIne will sing the lead.

In private life, Miss Cole is Mrs. Frank Schley, Princeton-Hightstown Road. She is one of the founders of the Princeton Opera Association.

Reproductions Of Early American Furniture

At Cane Farm, woodworking is a labor of love. You just can't turn out custom furniture on an assembly line basis. Each detailed piece is hand-tooled with the techniques of days gone by. If you think this activity has passed from the current scene, come visit us and see the fine work we turn out. In our new all-electric showroom, a converted farm building, you can browse among samples of the twenty-five or more different pieces we make. And you're perfectly welcome to take a look at our woodworking facilities, too. But don't expect to see a slum-bag operation! Old-time craftsmanship requires TLC.

FCA FAIR PLANNED

At Lawrenceville School, The Lawrenceville Elementary School PTA will hold its 13th annual County Fair on Saturday, October 8, from 11 to 4. Last year's fair netted $1,250 for school activities.

Mrs. John Zwoose is general chairman of the fair. She is being assisted by Mrs. John Mooney, Mrs. Paul Powell and Mrs. Samuel Shapiro. The first fair was held in 1951, and the books bought with the proceeds are still circulating in the Lawrenceville Community Library.

Books at the fair will feature boxed goods, books, candy, flowers, jewelry, surprise gifts, white elephant items, outgrown clothes, make-up and boutique items. The midway attractions will include China Break and Twirl Painting games and a Batman booth.

COL. POWERS HONORED

By Engineers' Society, Col. William F. Powers 68 Woodland Drive, has been awarded the first annual Construction Achievement Award of the Metropolitan Section of the American Society of Civil Engineers for his supervision of the planning and building of the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts.

Col. Powers, Town Topics Man of the Week September 15, is vice-president for engineering at Lincoln Center. He is leaving the post to become executive director of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington.

By Ballet Society, Mrs. Orville A. Petty Jr. has been elected president of the Princeton Ballet Society for the coming year, succeeding Mrs. Nathaniel Burt.

At the annual meeting of the Society's Board of Trustees, the following additional officers were elected: Mrs. George C. Ford, vice-president; Mrs. Ashley Horton, recording secretary; Mrs. Arthur Lithgow, corresponding secretary; and Leslie P. Hunneman, treasurer.

Trustees for the 1966-67 year will be Mrs. Burt, Robert V. Dilley, L. Wendell Estey, Mrs. V. Sturges Foster, George C. Ford, Mrs. Leslie P. Hunneman, Mrs. James P.

Kneubuhl, Mrs. Nicholas Lamont, William R. McDermood, Donald Mackie, Herbert C. Strubha, Mrs. Arthur S. Thurn and Mrs. George N. Webster.

SINGLETARIANS TO MEET

For Election Dance. The Singletarians, a non-sectarian social organization for single adults, will hold its annual election dance at the Brunswick Inn on Friday evening at 8. After the voting, Ed Hardy's Orchestra will play until 1 a.m.

The Singletarians was started in 1965 for adults over 25. Among its activities have been dances and dance lessons, card nights, theatre parties, picnics, bowling, discussion groups and week-end trips.

Those interested in the organization are invited to attend. Members will be admitted free.

America's minorities, I believe, are disgraced with the political sophistry of the so-called liberal leaders in the United States Congress. The present black power movement appears as a protest against the lack of real moral leadership displayed by these men. These are conditions Ralph Chandler pledged himself to correct. He has taken up the cause of all human beings as equals in the sight of God, and I believe he will bring to the Congress the truly human leadership it needs today for the sake of our nation, and its people.

Entering from its wide front porch, you find that the two rooms on the right have been remodeled into "The Living Room" (in front) and a delightful country bar behind, in the room that used to be a small sitting room. Open fireplaces are in both rooms.

The bar, with its six captain's-style stools, has an old "stone" (18th-century vinyl) floor and a genuine old tavern atmosphere. The adjoining "Living Room," separated by a partition of square wooden bars in

The Williamsburg manner, has those Williamsburg blue walls and gold velvet drapes, plus the intimate arrangement of tiny tables and chairs you associate with the cocktail hour.

Across the hall, the three dining rooms are linked by an overall carpet of bright ginger just, harmonizing warmly with the mustard table-cloths and light amber glassware. The front two rooms have retained their rather formal air, and you'll observe the Williamsburg brass sconces, the old shell tile on the two hearths and, in the front room, the spectacular peacock over the mantel and the two bird panels on the walls across the room. Sunshine streams in through the bay window during the luncheon hour in the middle dining area, touching the mahogany of the grandfather's clock.

In the rear dining room, largest of the three, the walls are dark russet, hung with polished copper and brass. A big corner fireplace, a large server arranged with old pewter and the wide circle of windows on east, south and west, give some hint of the room's spaciousness.

Dinner menus at the Peacock Inn are in the $2.25 to $3.90 category with a roast leg of lamb at $2.25. You may have stuffed turkey, Alaska King crab in butter, pan-fried brook trout, half a chicken. Filets mignon are $3.25 and prime sirloin $5.

ART In Princeton

INK READY?

Classes Are. The 12-week course in Basic Graphics to be given by the Princeton Graphic Workshop, Inc., will start Wednesday, October 12. (See advertisement page 30)

A morning session from 9 to 11 will be given by Judith Brodsky and an evening session from 7:30 to 9:30 by Carol Stoddard.

Registration for either session may be made at the Workshop, 12 Nassau Terrace in Bank. Inquiries may be directed to Mrs. Stoddard or Mrs. Brodsky at the Workshop, 924-2892.

Professional artists may sign up for use of the Workshop's equipment by calling at the Nassau Street address. Independent use of the presses and other facilities will begin Monday, October 3, at a schedule of hours indicated in the advertisement.

COLOR LECTURE SET

By Art Association. The Princeton Art Association will sponsor a lecture and demonstration of a new painting medium, polymer emulsion colors, on Thursday at 8:15 at 14 Nassau Street.

Ronald Alicandri of the New Master Company of Cambridge, Mass., will discuss the history, properties and uses of the new medium, commonly called "acrylics." His demonstration will illustrate the varied effects which can be achieved through the use of wet-on-wet and scrubbing. Mr. Alicandri will answer questions after the lecture.

SPORTS In Princeton

IVY OPENER SATURDAY
Columbia to Play Here. The rebuilding process that Princeton's football team began against Rutgers last week will continue Saturday when Columbia comes to Palmer Stadium for the first Ivy League game on the Tigers' schedule. A considerably improved team than the 35-00 who watched the Orange and Black hang to win its opener will be on hand for the 2-p.m. kickoff.

As the contest shapes up, there is small incentive for followers of the Light Blue to tuck the 30 miles from New York to watch the game. It is so long since Columbia last defeated Princeton in football that less than half the players who will be on the field Saturday were born when the Lions last won in this series. The year was 1945.

Theoretically, of course the hope of witnessing the first triumph over Princeton in more than two decades should draw Columbia fans, but Baker Field was very sparsely seated last week for their own opener against Colgate. It's a safe bet that many of the 8,800 who were there for the kickoff had drifted away before the 3:30 goal had ended.

Columbia is admittedly one of the east's top independents this season, and it is unlikely that Princeton's final margin this weekend will be anything like the 30 points. The Tigers are still too inexperienced, but they are big, eager, fairly solid defensively and considerably deeper almost everywhere than the always undermanned

ONE OF SIX: Princeton's 1632 victory over Rutgers Saturday, coincided six times on passes to end Steve Pierce (88). Used entirely on defense last year, Pierce in one game caught 29 percent of the number he needs to tie the mark set last year by Lauson Cassaday. The Princeton record for passes caught in one season is 39. (TOWX TOPICS Photo by Bob Matthews)

Lions. More than any other game on the 1966 schedule, the outcome is a foregone conclusion.

Martin Weber Due Back Hopes are that two key ball carriers will be ready for action, after missing the first game with injuries. Tailback Bob Weber was sidelined with a muscle pull and fullback Dave Martin was still feeling the effects of a severely bruised rib, which has kept him out of contact since September 19.

However, the starting Princeton backfield figures to have sophomore Dick Bracken at tailback, with Weber battling to earn the starting berth that had been assigned to him before he was injured. So sore was Bracken in the Rutgers game that the Canadian-born sophomore actually ran and passed on more plays (40 in one game than did Weber in his entire first season last fall.

Bracken's debut was a good one, particularly in view of the thoroughly inexperienced line that was operating in front

A Football Fan's Memory Test

Saturday's football game against Rutgers had numerous veteran observers of Palmer Stadium asking each other about a number of developments. "When did you last see that happen?" As nearly as can be ascertained, these are the answers.

Question: When did Princeton last open the season with a sophomore tailback? Answer: With Royce Flippin in 1953.

Question: To mark its biennial year, Rutgers requested the privilege of wearing its traditional scarlet uniform, rather than the prescribed white for visiting teams. When did two teams wearing full color last appear each other in Palmer Stadium? Answer: White uniforms for visiting teams have been the rule for more than a decade. It was some time in the early '50s.

Question: When did a team last punt on first down—as Princeton did just before the clock ran out in the third quarter to assure having the wind at its back? Answer: An educated guess would be on November 25, 1959—the day of the famed Dartmouth "hurricane game" when the wind blew through the open end of Palmer Stadium at better than a mile a minute, water was three inches deep on the field and each team kicked frequently, hoping the opposition would fumble.

Question: When did an opposing team last return a kickoff for a touchdown against Princeton? Answer: Jerry Blitz of Harvard ran the opening kickoff back 20 yards for a touchdown in Palmer Stadium on November 8, 1952.

Question: When did a team last open the game by recovering an onside kickoff, as Rutgers did Saturday? Answer: No one could recall having seen such a play on the opening whistle since Palmer Stadium was built in 1914.

210-lb. frame quickly and powerfully, and the one-two punch he and Weber will provide here for the next two years will find the Tigers quite content over the tailback situation.

Numerous Possibilities Hurt The back that Princeton carried 283 yards running and passing and yet racked up 107 yards in penalties was clear indication of the team's extreme inexperience. The Tigers were called for backs in motion, illegal use of the hands, clipping, and ineligible receivers downfield—all infractions that came from positioning in one form or another. These will disappear relatively early in the season as the opportunity for better precision develops. The question remains the blocking ability of the line and of quarterback Chuck Peters and Tailor Howard. It was the Tigers' poorest overall opening day performance in this department since 1962—a season that saw Princeton struggle to close a 2-4 record.

Rutgers Came Fast, It was greatly to the credit of an inexperienced Rutgers team that it rebounded from a 16-0 defeat with such emphasis that it had a good chance to win until Marty Riebelberger intercepted a pass near midfield in the game. The Scarlet had yielded the first field goal in the first half while failing to make a first down itself, but it

ONE OF THE JAMES BOYS EVADING PURSUIT: Doug James, defensive halfback, sailed between two Rutgers tacklers with pass but returned 54 yards. Tigers' best run of the day. It set up second touchdown and proved vital shortly thereafter when visitors scored twice in less than four minutes. (TOWN TOPICS Photo by Bob Matthews)

Dominated the action almost completely in the final two periods. Had it not been for a sparking 54-yard run by Doug James that set up Princeton's second TD, the visitors would have achieved a major upset.

Princeton scored the second time it got its hands on the ball. Riebelberger's 12-yard return of a short Rutgers' punt giving the home team possession on the visitors' 17. Wingsback John Rovers (who carried the unusual number of 14 yards) and achieved a fine 5.8-yard average) and Bracken took the ball in four plays. Bracken circling left end for the score at 3:16.

The Tigers kept knocking at the door almost continuously, but that was all the scoring until sophomore Ted Garcia made good on the third of three field goal attempts just 11 seconds before the half ended. It was a 25-yard placement, and with Rutgers entering its fourth quarter but at 2:13 of the final round, the Tigers gained it to 16-0 when Bracken passed to Steve Pierce from 15 yards out after James' punt return. It was on the ensuing kickoff that Jim Baker raced 58 yards through Princeton's defenders for a TD, and just six plays later, a screen pass set Bryant Mitchell loose on an 83-yard ramble for another score. Both attempts for two-point conversions were missed and the Tigers had to stand off two Rutgers' drives in the closing minutes to nail down the slim 16-12 triumph.

HOME OFFENSE SATURDAY
PHS vs. Ewing at 11. Upended 13-7 in its first game last year, Princeton High School will open its home season Saturday at 11. Its opponent will be Ewing, which belted St. Anthony's to a 13-13 tie in its first game last week. If the Little Tigers can generate an offense, they should be able to master the visitors. Ewing is rebuilding. From team that lost all but one in 1965, coach Steve Marchioni herded only eight returning lemmings. Of these, five are backs.

Against St. Anthony's, of whom not much is expected this season, either, Ewing was guilty of a rash of early-season mistakes. It scored three other touchdowns which were nullified for minor infractions. Its defense had trouble containing two fine sophomore backs of St. Anthony's—Kevin Hardman and Martin Flynn.

If the experienced Bob Devillae starts to click against PHS, however, and begins opening holes for its backs, especially hard-running Chip Creger, it could cause trouble. For at PHS demonstrated against Hamilton last week, one or two touchdowns may be all that Ewing will need to score an upset.

Good Defense, No Offense. When a team finds it can't run against its opponent, it has to throw the ball. When it can't throw either, it is likely to end up with zero points—and that would have been Princeton's fate against Hamilton Saturday had not Jeff Bullock picked off a pass on the Hamilton 31-yard line in the third quarter and raced in the end zone. That was to be the sum and substance of the Little Tigers' attack all afternoon.

Statistics reveal just how impatient Princeton's pass-nip, run performance was. Yards gained rushing: 10; yards passing: 15. It completed only two of 15 aerials, both under 10 yards. More damaging to the Blue and White cause were the three that were intercepted, one leading to Hamilton's second and game-winning TD.

Throughout its long afternoon of disappointment, there were three PHS phases: the running of co-captain Tom Wood, normally an end, from the tailback position; the punting of Matt Alexander; and the staunch defense of the Blue and White defense unit during the second half.

Alexander, who had a busy afternoon, set off a number of fine punts. One traveled 51 yards from scrimmage to the Hamilton 18 where it was fumbled and pounced on by Princeton's John McKeever. On the next play, after a sizeable gain, Wood had the ball taken away from him.

The word on the defense in the first half was "control." Hamilton's fullback Bill Hacken-berg, through repeated drives with no resistance in the second half, the word for the defense was "control." The front six of Walter Enloe, Mike Pomian-ski, John McKeever, Tom But-terfoss, Carmelo and Fred Fox stopped the Hornets' clock. Pomian-ki, especially, was the star after tackle.

Commenting on the Hamilton win, the latter's first over Princeton in more than 10 years, PHS coach Dick Wood had no doubts. "We couldn't move the ball."

He added that he planned to use Tom Wood more in place of the lighter — 205 vs. 145 — Jeff Bullock at tailback. "Bullock is okay if he has room to run, otherwise he can't move anybody," he said.

About the defeat Wood said, "I thought the defense would be better than the offense to begin with, and they were — they scored our only touchdown — but they had a lapse in the first half."

"We're a good team. We have a lot of work to do but we'll come along."

Field Goals Fail. To get some points on the scoreboard, Wood twice called on his field goal specialist, Keith Conover. With 8:27 remaining in the third period and behind 14-0, Conover tried one from the 45. It was wide but not by much. At 4:00, with 7:30 to go in the final quarter, Conover tried again but this time he was short. Hamilton scored all its points in the second period. After taking the opening kickoff it marched to the PHS one but was forced to hand over the ball later. In the second period, Hackett capped a 44-yard march by going over from the four standing up.

With a little over four minutes to go in the half, Joseph Carey intercepted a PHS jump pass on the victory 40. En route to its second six-pointer, Hamilton twice gained long yardage with its quarterback John Korts taking the snap-back, throwing a quick pass in an end who lacerated to a trail-er slotback.

Gogolak Boos Four

The Washington Redskins finally got around to giving Charlie Gogolak a chance to kick field goals Sunday in their game against the Pittsburgh Steelers when he was all over, he had kicked four field goals (41, 47, 22 and 15 yards) and added three p-a-i-l to contribute 15 of the points the Redskins scored in trimming the Steelers, 33 to 27.

Gogolak's four field goals were only one short of the record of five that has stood since the National Football League was organized 40 years ago. Five players share it — only two of them still active.

His achievement came on the first anniversary of his biggest day in the field — September 23, 1965 — when he set a national collegiate record by kicking six field goals against Rutgers. His 47-yarder against the Steelers is only seven yards short of his NCAA record, and it was achieved without the use of the two-inch tee, which the pros do not allow.

In the second half, dominated by PHS, visiting Little T-ers had more than enough opportunities to score. They couldn't move. At no time was PHS able to spring one of its backs free for a long gain.

With 7:58 to go, Enloe recovered a Hamilton fumble — one of five given up by the Hornets — but on the next play Tom Yoder's pass was intercepted by Hamilton's Thornton Tucker. And so it went.

Princeton got the ball again at 3:08. Two ground plays by Bullock netted nothing. On fourth and nine, end Rich Volk had his two defenders beaten over the goal but fell. Wood and the PHS bench claimed that Volk had been interfered with; the officials ruled otherwise.

With 56 seconds to go, PHS had its last chance. This time Wood was throwing from a shotgun offense. None of his four passes was close.

HUN ELEVEN TO OPEN
Saturday at Farragut. The Hun School will begin its 1966 football season Saturday at 2 when it travels to Toms River and an opening battle with Admiral Farragut.

What are the prospects for the Johnny Huns this season? Will they be able to equal 1965's effort when they won six, lost one and tied one. Will their defense match last year's brilliant performance which saw Hun shut out four of its eight opponents and limit three others six points to emerge as the top defensive team in the Delaware Valley area?

For Hawley Waterman, who is starting his 11th year as head coach of the Red and Black, two big "ifs" stand in the way of predictions. If Hun can find an A-1 passer and if it can solve weaknesses at both ends, then —

Physically, Hun will be bigger this year. The line will be led by a pair of outstanding tackles, 235-pound junior Duke Chute, and co-captain Rocky Otis, 210 pounds in the middle at center will be veteran William "Jet" Black.

"From tackle to tackle we'll be strong, aggressively and defensively," observed Waterman. "We should be able to grind out some yardage through the middle and we'll be tough to run against there."

At the flanks, the opposite is true. Waterman reported that in a scrimmage with Bryn Athyn, Hun was weak at stopping end runs and they were turning his flanks all day," he said. Another pair at linemen: weak passing and the absence of a break-away runner. "We don't have anyone like Mike Miller. Hun's all-anything halfback last year," who can break open a game with a long run," Waterman said. "All our backs are equal in ability."

In the Forefront: Here's how Waterman views the top contenders for each position. Quarterback is a battle between Ken Kelley (better passer) and captain Mike Simko who has in edge in experience. Frank Cape and Mark Short are vying for the starting right half-back slot while Dick Mate has long left half. Dave Liederman and Bill Kehoe, the latter debuted by Waterman as probably the top schoolboy punter in the area, are the fighting for starting fullback.

On the line, Pete Margia will be one of the guards, with Tim Townsend or Gene Rubin the other. Black is at center and Oitz and Chute are the tackles. Behind Black will be Tony Laughlin. Back-up tackles include Reese Day, John Haffner and Charles McPherson.

Replacements for the graduated Jim MacLeod and Jay Ruhler at end, the trouble spot, will come from four candidates: Bill Sherred, Ken Sherman, Don Silverman and Bob Angle.

Assisting Waterman are Dave Leete, who is coaching the backfield, Peter and David Savidge, two former standout Hun players under Waterman, and Charles Hamilton. The Savidges will work with the Jayvee squad and Hamilton with what Waterman termed "our peewees," or smallest boys.

League to Be Tough. Hun operates in the Penn-Jersey League with five other prep schools. Its opener with Farrington and a November meeting with Piquety are the two non-league games.

Hun came within an eyelash of capturing the crown last fall but lost out to Perkiomen, the only league team to defeat Hun.

This year, Perkiomen figures to be strong again, said Waterman, as well Solebury, which lost only one starter through graduation.

George School is reported to be fielding a big squad this season and Pennington School with a veteran backfield could be a dark horse. It should be an interesting season.

DINNER IS PLANNED

For Golf Pro Jimmy Warg. Jimmy Warg, Forsgate Country Club Golf pro, will be honored November 5 with a testimonial dinner at Forsgate for his 25 years in golf, both as a player and professional. Warg first became a pro at the Hollow Brook Country Club in Peckskill, N. Y., in 1941 under George Jacobs, eight-time head of the National Association of Professional Golfers Association.

The war interrupted Warg's career, however, and he spent four years in the air force. In 1948 he joined the national golf tour. A year later he became assistant pro to Augie Bord at Forsgate where he has been helping golfers straighten hooks and slices ever since.

In 1957, he was elected president of the New Jersey Professional Golfers' Association. He has been a permanent delegate at national PGA councils ever since.

Obituaries

Paul D. Tillet Jr., 42, associate director of the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers University, died suddenly on September 26 at his home, 539 Irving Street. He was the husband of Mrs. Virginia E. Tillet. Dr. Tillet was a member of the Rutgers staff since 1957. A graduate of Wesleyan University, he held a doctor of jurisprudence degree from the University of Chicago Law School, and master's and doctor of philosophy degrees from Princeton University. Prior to joining the Rutgers faculty he worked at the University of Nebraska Law School and at Princeton.

He was author of "Doc Day," published in 1963 by the Rutgers Press, a book which examined political pressures on one-day anti-race riot season. He won national recognition last year for a five-month course, "A New Birth of Freedom: Civil Rights and Civil Liberties," which he gave on WCBS-TV's Sunrise Seminar program. At Eagleton, his special responsibilities included editing a series of case studies on politics which was

Question of the Week

Question: Are you in favor of or opposed to the concept of "Black Power"?

Where asked: Around town

Henry Lockhart, 291 Witherspoon Street, dishwasher: I'm in favor of it but I feel that people are getting the wrong impression about it. They think the Negro just wants to rise up and take hold of everything, but that's wrong. They just want their freedom. They want to be equals in everything.

James Wilson, Trenton cook, Princeton University: I think it's a little too strong. It'll only cause trouble. Things are working out. If you look back only 10 years ago, you can see we've come a long way. Everybody's progressing today. If we push to hard, we may lose the power we've got.

Miss Gloria Washington, Rockey Hill: I'm opposed to it. It doesn't really make sense. I believe if you do something in a non-violent way, you'll accomplish much more.

Leroy York, Trenton, porter, Princeton University: I'm opposed to that. It's too strong a method. I would apply it a little more gradually — the way we've been doing it.

Ruth Reid, Trenton, medical secretary, Princeton Hospital: I'm opposed to it. We can't have all black power and we can't have all white power. We have to be united in order for us to survive.

Mrs. Pat Williams, Trenton, waitress, Renwick's Restaurant: I have nothing to do with that kind of stuff. I just don't think anything of it. I don't want any part of it.

Bayard Rustin Sr., Little Rockey Hill, retired last year as employee of the University Store after 48 years of service: I'm opposed to it. We have these different organizations coming out and saying their black this or white that — we're all Americans. That's the way I like to think about it. Give us our equality and we'll come across. I don't hate white persons but I hate what some white persons do, just as I hate what some colored persons do.

Lewis Sullivan, 80 Phillips Avenue, Lawrenceville school custodian: I'm opposed to it. Very much so. There's no meaning to it to me. It's not needed. I've lived with all races all my life and never had any trouble. One of my best friends is white. I don't know what color is and he doesn't either.

Mrs. Jennie Brown, 71 Clay Street, housewife: I go along with it. I feel the Negro should have more power than he does now.

Timothy Johnson, 35 Leigh Avenue, door washer: I think it's all right. Something may come of it. If we keep at it, things may improve. There's been so much back and forth that you sometimes don't know where you stand. If you never start anything you'll never get to change anything.

Harold Wilson, Princeton inn, musician: I don't like it. I think it's an over-emphasis, an extreme. I would prefer to see something more moderate. I believe there is a middle of the road. There can't be all one way or all the other. Eventually, people are going to have to accept it. It's progress. In our attempt to reach this middle path, the phrase "black power" is out of place. It's too strong.

Robert Teague, Ewing Township, high school student: I'm opposed. I really don't think it's necessary. I feel they can go along more or less the way they have and not resort to extreme methods.

Robert Klumpp, graduate student, physical chemistry to me, the phrase "black power" is more or less irrelevant. I don't think anybody can use one phrase and say this is a new Negro movement. I'm in favor of the use of the phrase black power because it brings out a lot of things on the surface that need to be brought out. What Black power says is that it is going into the ghetto and build it economically and politically. It is different in this respect than what Martin Luther King is doing. King is conducting mass demonstrations for better housing which affects only the fringe of Negroes. By fringe I mean only those Negroes for the most part who can afford to move. Black Power seems to be a mass movement. It's going into the ghettos and strengthening them where the poor people are finally going to benefit. This is unique and is something needed for the black people in general to identify with and identify with pride. This is what the conservatives have been asking for for the last 50 years. Then when it happens, everybody accuses it of being a racist type of thing when actually it is a movement of the masses.

Rollin Maize, Trenton, school teacher: I don't really know what the term means. You hear so many different ideas what it is supposed to mean but I haven't heard any authoritative definition. At the moment, it doesn't mean a thing to me.

James Adams, Trenton, short order cook at Tenace Foundation: I'm not quite sure I understand what "black power" means but if it has anything to do for colored people's rights, then I'm in favor of that.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
TO YOU

By Archimedes (Bernard)
Many women wonder if certain ailments prevent permanent waving. It is difficult to generalize and state that a particular illness may affect hair condition and have a bearing on permanent wave results. The effect of various body ailments may differ with the individual and with the duration and severity of the illness.

Some individuals may have strong, glossy hair that provide a good foundation for permanent waving in spite of a body ailment; others may have hair that is dry and lifeless even though they are in good health. In each case, the hair structure itself is our raw material for the permanent wave. We depend largely upon our ability to evaluate its condition as to the mechanical alterations which affect permanent waving, rather than on information about the patient's health.

You will receive the skillful knowledge it takes to give you a beautiful permanent at TAYLORWOOD BEAUTY MANOR, 68 Palmer Square West, 924-5083.

CAN YOU AFFORD TO GET SICK?

You often hear someone say: "Only the very rich or the very poor can afford to get sick these days. The rich can afford the finest medical treatment, and the poor get it for nothing. This may be true so far as hospital and doctor bills are concerned. But it definitely doesn't apply to prescriptions. At an average price of $3.25 per Rx. . . at a total annual cost to the average family of only $4625 for all its prescription needs. . . it's obvious that . . .

Asks Day-Care Study To The Editor of Town Topics:

Someone from the far side of the world in New Zealand recently made me aware of the fact that there was no year-round day care for the children of working mothers in Princeton. I read commentary on the lack of communication between ethnic or occupational groups in this town that a stronger bond should be formed, but not a resident Princetonian.

It was happy to see Mr. Sulphin's letter about this cry of the year-round day care. I hope that there are others who will bring their interest and pressure to bear. Perhaps it would be possible to have one of our bored teenagers as volunteer helpers in the summer months? Can a meeting of interested persons be held to discuss all aspects of the situation?

E. S. HARRISON
325 Walnut Lane

Achievement Expressed To The Editor of Town Topics:

On Wednesday, September 17, I attended the Borough Council Meeting. It was a difficult for the Borough Council and members to provide adequate protection for the Clay Street residents.

I was astonished to hear that neighbors were "harrassed" night after night, that the few school-bred men in the development are no match for the gang-bangers, and that legal complaints against the residents I have mentioned that it is so difficult for us to provide in the 1960's assistance to our youth. I was astonished that no definite action was taken to alleviate this problem.

Mr. Mayor and Councilmen! It is your duty and responsibility as elected officials not to wait any longer, but to take definite action now. With the great wealth, talent and leadership Princeton possesses in national and international affairs, scholarship, research, science, and many other fields, we should be ashamed that this juvenile problem continues to grow out of hand.

President Coleman, may we call on you and all the educators to come forth and aid us in the internal problems that confront our community? If the vast knowledge that comes from the University cannot help the local community, then what does the future hold for our great nation? If we permit internal decay to be a marionette, then will not take the Communists or Viet-Con to defeat us, for we will defeat our selves.

I would like to call again for the organization of a Juvenile Board. This is a definite step forward and should be taken now. With the minds of many outstanding leaders entering in a united effort, there is no limit to what we can accomplish. "In only there is strength."

Mr. Mayor and Councilmen riding through areas, fixing a light, building a new Borough Hall and gym, and having optimism will not alleviate the problem. Definite action must be taken now.

I am confident that if you continue to sit back and do nothing that the citizens of this community will take action in the November election. Leaders cannot sit back and watch the liberties of others threatened.

How To Survive

Cory S. Kammiller

Statistics on automobile accidents sometimes lead us to draw surprising conclusions. For instance, if you should ever have to decide between cutting in and continuing on the wrong side of the road with a car coming towards you, cut in. (Give necessity should be the only reason for ever cutting in. Figures compiled by one insurance company show that only 50 people were killed cutting in in one 12-month period, as opposed to 6,200 killed while driving on the wrong side of the road. Obviously, if you want to be safe, don't play the numbers game at all... obey the law. If everyone did, statistics show we'd avoid three out of four accidents. The purpose of our column, and of our service, is to serve you well.) Kammiller Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 106 Princeton Airport, 921-3235

FOCAL POINT of the opening session of the New Jersey Baptist Convention being held in Atlantic City this Thursday will be this 7-foot mobile designed by the Rev. Kenneth S. Danneberg, left, and Deacon Robert E. West, over of 28 Philip Drive. The mobile, depicting the Church's role in an urban society, has a large cross at the center which hangs motionless, while objects symbolic of present-day life revolve around it.

The October 11 program when Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Seminary, will address the women's groups from neighboring Presbyterian churches.

CATHOLIC TO SPEAK
At Antiarthian Church, The Antiarthian Church's discussion series, "Why I Am Not a Unitarian," continues this Sunday with Professor Dennis O'Brien, dean of men at Middlebury College, as the speaker. His topic is "Why I Am a Catholic."

Prof. O'Brien, formerly a member of the philosophy department at Princeton University, is both a scholar of metaphysics and an acute commentator on American undergraduate life today. The lecture is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. at the church and is open to all in the Princeton community who are interested in the temporary currents of religious thought.

Slender attendance charge is $1, with proceeds donated to causes of the speaker's choice. For information and tickets, call 924-1004 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

DR. SHAUL TO PREACH
At Choir College, The Rev. Dr. William S. Shaull, professor of exegesis at Princeton Seminary, will deliver the sermon at 11 a.m. next Wednesday, October 5, in Westminster College chapel. The public is invited.

Dr. Shaull came to the Seminary after 20 years in South America, where he served as a pastor in Brazil and Columbia and as a seminary professor and university administrator. In addition to his present work on the World Council of Churches' study on rapid social change, he has served with the Latin American Council of Churches and Society and with the Department of Church and Society of the Evangelical Confederation of Brazil.

SET MEMORIAL FUND
For Alan K. Morse, Members of Hadassah have established a memorial fund in honor of Alan K. Morse of 124 Snowden Lane who died suddenly last Thursday in Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York City. Because of the long-time interest of Mr. and Mrs. Morse in the work of Hadassah, the proceeds will be used to purchase medical equipment for the Hadassah Hospital in Jerusalem.

Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Bernard Cox of 108 Leabrook Lane. For each gift received, a card will be sent to Mrs. Morse stating the donor's name.

TO HOLD FIRST SERVICE
Of New Lutheran Church, Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, the mission congregation of the Lutheran Church in America, will hold its first worship service at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday, October 9.

The worship service, in Wilbur Township, and the congregation will be meeting temporarily in the Maurice Hawk School, Clarksville Road.

The Rev. John C. Pfisterer, pastor, will preach at the first service. The New Jersey Synod of the national church and the Rev. Richard H. Bartley, regional secretary of the Board of American Missions, will convey greetings to the new congregation.

A planning committee, consisting of Mrs. Lee Baker, James Gunkel and Bert Midkiff, is assisting the pastor in the development of the mission church. Church school classes for all ages will begin on Reformation Sunday, October 30, at 9:15 a.m.

Now is the time for you to take advantage of the outstanding home value in New Jersey. Kensington Park offers enormous homes at value prices in addition to an outstanding community with not only a perfect location, but a private swim club, and every facility for living the good life.

But, as costs rise, the good life will be more expensive. We've tried to hold the price line, but, reluctantly, we'll have to raise our prices on October 3rd.

So don't delay. Come to Kensington Park, today! You'll want to spend a lifetime here . . . and you can.

BONUS OFFER:

For a limited time only, YOUR CHOICE OF a complete central air-conditioning system OR 4 APPLIANCES.

All homes at Kensington Park are set on a half acre landscaped plot, have basements, and are offered with choice of three elevations.

Pre-Revolutionary Perfection

DESIRABLE 200 YEARS AGO — infinitely MORE desirable today. The beautiful lines, the very thick walls, the perfection of the woodwork, the huge fireplace with crane in the ground floor family room will delight you. A front living room, large rear living room with lovely bay overlooking the lake, gracious dining room, kitchen, 4 family bedrooms, 2 baths, and servants' quarters. The terraces and porch overlook the swimming pool and lake. Lovely trees and shrubs. $75,000

SIZE ISN'T EVERYTHING, but it sure helps when you want a quiet corner. Everything seems right from center hall to large light living room with fireplace to formal dining room. Large, very modern kitchen and cozy, paneled family room. Five double bedrooms, two and one half baths. Central air conditioning is but one of the many special features. A great family house with lots of quiet spots. $57,500

WARM, WEATHERED SHINGLES and crisp white trim are so right for a traditional colonial design. You'll be pleasantly surprised when you open the front door and see the attractive staircase rising from right to left across the entrance hall. The ceilings in the formal living room are just a little higher, the nicely paneled den overlooks the lawn in back, plenty of room for an heirloom sideboard in the dining room. The most up-to-date of kitchens with everything you might wish for. Four double bedrooms and two and one half baths. The very best of old and new. $48,500

IF YOU'RE NOT IN A HURRY to move, we have an immaculate ranch in the Riverside area. It's grand enough for a retirement home and versatile enough for raising a family. Entrance hall, formal living room with fireplace, dining room, up-to-date kitchen, 3 bedrooms and 2 baths, plus an enclosed breezeway. The downstairs family room, handsomely paneled (and with another full bath), is perfect for large parties, a playroom or study. Centrally air conditioned, the house sits well back on a beautifully landscaped lot. Ready for your move next spring. $50,000

BRILLIANT!

A good way to describe the design of this outstanding William Thompson house. And brilliant is the way you'll feel when you've chosen to make it your home.

The house is set on 1½ acres of wooded land in Elm Ridge Park. Rooms include flagstone foyer, sunken living room with wide windows overlooking the woods and a fireplace, plus another fireplace in the paneled study. (the study also has built in bookshelves, cabinets and a complete built-in wet bar). Separate dining room, extremely large kitchen with attractive breakfast area, utility room with all laundry facilities, master bedroom, bath and screened porch. Upstairs there are two more bedrooms with adjoining bath plus an expandable 3rd room ready to be adopted to your individual needs. Full basement and attached, 2 car garage. A house that offers you a brilliant future!
